UNIVERSITY OF GEORGIA GLEE CLUB HEARD BY RESPONSIVE AUDIENCE

Glee Club Opens Season With
Two Concerts in Milledgeville.

G. S. C. Students Attend Matinee

Students of G. S. C. W. were most delightfully entertained at a matinee performance of the Glee Club of University of Georgia. Friday afternoon. It was a most enjoyable program and the girls all agree that it is one of the "best ever". There is no doubt that it is one of the most entertaining programs ever given at the college.

The instrumental club was one of the most outstanding features of the program. Of course the orchestra numbers were thoroughly enjoyed and the comedians provoked much laughter and merriment. The High Court of the Red and Black, part two of the program included the club, the orchestra and the instrumental club. It was the most spectacular and thoroughly "college" part of the program.

Needless to say, ninety-five per cent of the girls on the campus were there, enjoyed it thoroughly, and will remember it a long, long time. The officers of the club are:

Carlton Mell, President.
E. P. Rogers, Business Managers.
John Pendergrast, Leader of Glee Club.
William Eyer, Assistant leader.
Philip Mulherrin, Leader of Instrumental Club.
Francis Gilbert, Assistant Leader.
Max Oliver, Advertising Manager.
Mack Barnes, State Manager.
Lamar Sledge, Property Man.

MARY JO WOOD CHOSEN SEC. OF JUNIOR CLASS

Succeeds Ruth Moran

A meeting of the Junior Class was called by the class president, "Polly" Moss for the election of a new secretary, the former secretary Ruth Moran, had resigned because of being now classified as Senior. The meeting was held in Atkinson Study Hall.

Those nominated for the office were: Mary Jo Wood, Mary Lee Anderson, Virginia McMichael, and Mary Hyman. When the votes were counted Mary Jo Wood, received the greatest number, which elected her as secretary of her class.

Ruth served excellently as secretary and it was with regret that they gave her up. Their consolation lies in their newly elected officer. The class feels certain that Mary Jo is capable of filling the office and welcomes her as its secretary, and promises cooperation to all the officers.

NORMANDY SINGERS GIVE PROGRAM HERE SATURDAY, MARCH 27

Bell Ringers Conclude Year's Lyceum Numbers.

The Normandy Singers and Bell Ringers Company offered an especially attractive lyceum program at the Opera House on Saturday evening, March 27.

The quartet consisted of A. C. Murch, bass and manager; Herbert Abbott, baritone and pianist; Richard Scott, second tenor; and Clyde Phillips, first tenor. Each member of the quartet has had special training in Lyceum work. They all possessed splendid voices and their ensemble numbers proved to be very attractive.

The program was especially entertaining because of its unusual variety. It consisted of religious numbers, classical music, popular songs, and impersonations, character sketches, instrumental and stunts. This diversified program kept the audience in the best of humor throughout the evening.

One hundred very fine English Bells used by the singers are said to have been made by John Taylor and Company of Loughborough, Leicestershire, England; and are thought to have cost originally twenty-five hundred dollars. "Unequaled for constancy of pitch, and resonance of tone quality they are perhaps the finest set of English hand made bells in existence to-day." A very unusual and striking number was "Sunday Morning in London," being an impressionistic instrumental and vocal feature of the chimes and hymns heard in the London cathedrals on Sunday morning. Other attractive numbers were "To a Wild Rose," "Nearer my God to Thee," "Stars and Stripes," "The Rosary."

"They ring true—and they sing true." Their remarkable teamwork was shown throughout the "well-balanced, fast-moving entertainment that seems to have caught the popular fancy," partly because of this pep and life which characterizes their work. These professional artists proved themselves real musicians; and their program was appreciated and enjoyed by faculty and student body.

HISTORY CLUB HAS POLITICAL PROGRAM

A joint session of Congress was held Friday, March 12, by the History Club. The question for discussion was the tax problem, especially inheritance, income, and transportation tax.

In the House the Chairman of the Ways and Means Committee gave a report of the week's work. The inheritance tax bill was discussed and after some argument was passed.

In the Senate the Chairman of the Finance Committee reported on the work which had been done. With Vice-President Dawes presiding, a discussion was held. Some Senators (Continued on page 2)

SEC. OF NATIONAL COUNCIL FOR PEACE SPEAKS HERE

Large Audience Hears Doctor
Watkins

Discussion On "America First" Is Closed with Challenge to Youth for Peace

Dr. Watkins of Washington, D. C., secretary of the National Council for Peace, gave a very interesting and instructive talk in mid-week vespers, Thursday, March 11. The work being done in our nation and others for the preservation of peace was the theme of his talk.

Since he was from the capitol, and since his work deals directly with the matters concerning peace, Dr. Watkins was able to clear many questions in the minds of students with regard to the World Court, the League of Nations and other problems of world peace.

After giving direct information concerning the steps that are being taken by officials of different nations to preserve peace, he brought out the idea that there is a part for each individual in this great plan. As students there is little that we (Continued on page 3)

"WOMEN OF INDUSTRY" IS EMPHASIS PRESENTED BY Y. W. C. A. LEADER

Recently Miss Marguerite Rood and Miss Bessie Pressley of Macon, visited the campus. Miss Rood is Industrial Secretary of the Macon Y. W. C. A. Miss Pressley is a stenographer for the Commercial Credit Company. They are interested in women in industry and what may be done to lessen the hardships of the working woman.

At the Sunday evening Vesper service they presented the Industrial problem from every stand point. Miss Pressley, representing the working girls, drew a picture of hardship in telling of the situations she had confronted, and the difficulties she had seen others go through. Miss Rood outlined a more optimistic view giving the following means by which students may help the women in industry:

1. To acquaint oneself with actual conditions as they exist today.
2. To know the laws relating to working women.
3. To aid in creating public opinion against undesirable conditions.
4. To influence law makers.

On Monday afternoon the Y. W. Cabinet, Sophomore Commission, and Freshman Council held a joint meeting at which Miss Rood led a discussion on the Industrial Problem.

Those who are interested are urged to try the "Industrial Experiment" which is advocated by the National Y. W. C. A. This year it is to be held in Chicago. The participants are actually to secure some type of work and spend six weeks living on their earnings.

G. S. C. STUDENTS TO ATTEND STATE COUNCIL AT CAMP WILKINS

Training Council for "Y" Officers to Meet in Athens.

The annual meeting of the State Cabinet Training Council is to be held this year, beginning April 2, at Camp Wilkins, one mile out from Athens.

This year Georgia is to be a pioneer. The Council is to be co-educational. Cliff Taylor, G. S. C. W., representing the Y. W. C. A., and "Whitie" Craig, Emory, representing the Y. M. C. A., are acting as co-chairmen. There will be delegations from the Student Y. M. C. A.'s and Y. W. C. A.'s of Georgia colleges and universities.

Mr. George Collins, Traveling Secretary for the Association, is to be the principal speaker. Other speakers will be: Miss Willa Young, National Secretary of Y. W. C. A.; Miss Betty Webb, Student Secretary of Southern Division of Y. W. C. A.; Mr. J. W. Berghold, Student Secretary of Southern Division of Y. M. C. A. Among the Student Secretaries will be: Mr. D. F. Folger, Emory; Mr. W. M. Cashion, Tech; Mr. E. L. Sechrist, University of Georgia; Miss Oma Goodson, G. S. C. W.

The general theme of the conference is to be "Jesus and the Association." As the conference is to be primarily for the training of Cabinet officers for next year much of the time will be given to technical discussions.

The first session will be on Friday night, April 2, with Miss Goodson leading a devotional on "The Crucified Christ." Mr. Collins' address, "What Think Ye of Him?" will follow.

On Saturday morning, Jack Anderson, of Agnes Scott, will lead a devotional on "Days of Silence," followed by a talk by Mr. Collins on "Jesus and the Association." The remainder of the morning will be given to discussion groups growing out of the morning address.

Mr. Berghold will lead the members of the Y. M. C. A. in a discussion on the technicalities of the Association on Saturday afternoon. Miss Betty Webb will have charge of the girls' meeting and talk on "Our Challenge." This will be followed by a forum.

The Blue Ridge Committee will present a typical Blue Ridge program on Saturday night.

Before breakfast on Sunday morning, an Easter pageant will be given.

The regular morning session will include the following: Devotional, "The Risen Lord," by Mr. Berghold; student talks on "What It Means to Follow Jesus," address, "How Radical Shall We Be?" by Mr. Collins.

The conference will disband at noon Sunday.

The great Alexandrian Library at Alexandria Egypt, contained 700,000 volumes.

OFFICERS AND CABINET OF Y. W. C. A. ELECTED FOR YEARS 1926-27

Polly Moss, Pres.; Lorene Teaver,
U. R.; Grace Taylor, V. P.;
Hazel Hogan, Sec.; Virginia McMichael, Treas.

The election of Y. W. C. A. officers for the year 1926-27 was completed during the past week. At a meeting of the Y. W. C. A. membership, ballots were cast for the nominees. A tabulating committee was chosen and the following results reported at a later meeting: Polly Moss and Lorene Teaver received the highest votes for both president and undergraduate representative; Grace Taylor and Hazel Hogan received the highest votes for both vice-president and secretary; Cornelia Ledbetter and Virginia McMichael were nominated for treasurer.

The final results of the election were as follows: Mary Moss from Columbia was chosen president, Polly has been active in "Y" work beginning as president of Freshman Council then as head of World Fellowship Department and this year head of the Religious Department, Grace Taylor of Waynesboro was elected vice-president; Hazel Hogan of Canton, secretary; Virginia McMichael of Beuna Vista, treasurer; Lorene Teavor of La Grange, undergraduate representative.

In the same manner of election the heads of the departments were chosen with the following results: Ruth Vaughn, Cartersville, World Fellowship Department; Frances Thaxton, Milledgeville, Social Department; Sypper Youmans, Lexsy, Publicity Department; Cornelia Ledbetter, Decatur, Religious Department; Janet Christian, Beuna Vista, Service Department.

The members of the Cabinet were chosen in a similar way, they are: Lucile Scroggins, Sargeant; Wynelle Otwell, Augusta; Annie Candler, Vil- (Continued on page 3)

FIRE DESTROYS PORTION OF BUSINESS SECTION

Estimate of Loss Is $100,000

On Wednesday night, March 17, the G. S. C. girls were awakened by an alarm caused by one of the most disastrous fire Milledgeville had ever known. A conservative estimate places the loss at $100,000. The Elk's Home, a three-story brick building, and two stores belonging to D. W. Brown and Co., were completely destroyed by the flames, Culver Kidd's Drug Store was wrecked by falling walls of the Elk's Club, O. U. R. Barber Shop, M. W. Millers store and the two story building east of the Elk's Club were damaged by fire, water, and falling brick.

When discovered at eleven-thirty the fire was burning in the rear of the first and second floors of the Elk's Club. The fire-department was summoned, but in spite of heroic work, the firemen were unable to (Continued on page 3)

A MESSAGE TO THE ALUMNAE

Perhaps you are one of the girls who wore the Brown a few months ago, or years may have passed since you were here. Although your name is called no more in the classroom and your chief interest is not preparing for tests and examinations or keeping your numerous note books up-to-date, do you feel that you are a part of the College today and that the College is interested in you today as much, if not more, than when you were a student? We hope that you do.

A College is more than its buildings, faculties and students; it is the embodiment of an ideal and includes also all of those who have gone out from its halls as well as those who have an interest in its welfare or those who hope some day to be members of its group. Your College is proud of its graduates, and in their success and happiness it rejoices. If it has done anything to aid in these, it is gratified. If failure or disappointment has come to any of them, it regrets that it has not helped enough or prevented. Today we who are here, as well as you, are trying to perpetuate the ideals for which our College stands—we to serve and help those in the present College group; you to carry the ideals of service and helpfulness to all parts of the earth. We and you are the channels through which the real purpose of the College is carried out. We touched your life, developed your powers, fired your ambition and inspired your soul to great and lofty purposes. You are carrying the torch onward, outward and upward. May the many good things you received here be ever with you and may your feet never stumble and may your arm never tire as you uphold in your daily life the ideals for which your College stands.

We trust that you will never lose contact with us, and that we can always keep in touch with you, giving each to the other encouragement and help. Too often the diploma seems to serve the interest of the college in the student and the student in the college. Let it not be so with you. Let us help you when we can, and do not fail to help us at all times. As the true mother never ceases to love and serve her daughters and the true daughters find no greater joy than that of loving and serving their mother, may your Alma Mater and its daughters, as the years go by, grow more and more to love each other and increase this love by serving each other in every way they can.

—Prof. O. A. Thaxton.

YOUR COLLEGE SPIRIT

"Monotony sometimes overshadows the old routine, and we wonder if we are the possessor of any spirit at all. Then, when thoughts of a final good-bye surge the complex senior mind, real spirit begins to take form. Is it that students feel the realization of the old saying, 'Absence makes the heart grow fonder?' Will your Alma Mater then have a more vital place in your heart? Are we now so close at hand that the perspective is spoiled?"

Is it that underclassmen lack a deep and forceful interest in our College? Are they yet too young and inexperienced to appreciate the gift this institution is making them? We cannot think so, in fact, we believe youth and enthusiasm are almost synonymous. It is true that seniority adds beauty to this spirit just as the shadows mellow and render the picture livelier. The freshmen can and must have an animated participation in college ideals and actions.

Questions shape themselves. We ask the meaning of "College Spirit." Ah! the undefinable charm in the human being makes personality. Then may we term spirit as one of those undefinable elements, which tempered by idealism and enthusiasm determines the success of any College. The practical might deem such phraseology idealistic. We protest, for we are sure no sentiment is more delightful than that of reality.

Is your college spirit a living, vital reality? Let us shake off the fetters of passivity. Leave traditional standards of enthusiasm. Create anew a spirit more loyal, more real than any of yore.

INSPIRATION

Yet above I sometimes see
One who beckons on to me,
Crowned in gold, a vision white
Calling to me through this dark night:
"Live, be brave, endure,
But through it all—be pure!"

ON WRITING AN INFORMAL ESSAY

For several days I have been an object of suspicion. When I walk slowly with bent head, only half conscious of my surroundings and grudgingly leaving my thoughts to speak to passing acquaintances, I am given little wondering side-glances; when I walk squarely into a post and before I realize what has happened, say, "Excuse me!" those who witness the incident stare and sometimes laugh; but when I stop in a doorway, half in and half out—with the "inside" of me pleasantly warmed by the heated building and the "outside" of me unpleasantly chilled by the crisp air—and all un-mindful of the girls who may wish to pass through that particular doorway, joyously murmur "Oh-h-h!" and ecstatically attempt to clasp my hands, thereby spilling all of my books, they stare affrightedly at me and move quickly away with many backward glances. I am sure that some believe that it will not be long before I am committed to the State Hospital for the Insane, but those few who understand, sympathize; for they know that I am desperately struggling to combine my thoughts into an informal essay.

"Treat of something with which you are familiar," was the teacher's instruction. A clock is steadily clicking beside me—surely that is a familiar enough object." Be certain that your details are pertinent to the one great idea—whether it be a moral principle or a trait common to humanity—underlying your essay. Why not let the clock typify the persevering man, who strives onward always, backward never? Perhaps, however, that subject had best be left to the Domancistic; for just as a clock needs someone to wind it regularly, so the most ambitious man needs someone to urge him on with a whispered "for my sake," and certainly I am incapable of effectively presenting that comparison.

Since clocks must be left to more experienced writers, I wonder if radiators would be at all interesting. There's a possibility of comparing the painted and decorated radiator with a social butterfly, seemingly for ornament only, but hiding underneath that beautiful exterior an ability to serve humanity. I might help the social services with an appeal like this: "Wont you society buds, like the radiators in your homes use your beauty for the good of the needy?" There might be some of those some debutantes, however who would resent being compared to a radiator. But that and the fact that it is too "preachy" aren't the main objections to writing about radiators.

When I remember that I used to wake early in the morning, when the steam was just entering the pipes, causing them to creak and groan, and irritatedly wonder why some man insisted in beating on the pipes that early in the morning—when I remember my mistaken ideas about that, I am forced to decide that perhaps I don't know quite enough about radiators to write about them. Clocks, radiators, calendars, bookends, blankets, a sunset, heroism, the mockery of Thanksgiving—there is something wrong with all of them as subjects for an informal essay. My hair will turn white with wondering what object or phase of life I can depict—in the last few minutes that has been decided. The worry is just as strenuous, but I am no longer concerned with what I shall write, but with whether or not what I have written is an informal essay.

Psychology teacher: "For instance, we never think about winking the eye unless we are trying out some little experiment."

SPRINGTIME EFFECTS ON ORNITHOLOGY CLASS

"Tweet! Tweet! Spring has come," so saith the prophet, and we are inclined to believe him, 'cause, well, hasn't the class in ornithology corroborated his declaration? Have you seen them? I mean those erratic young maidens dashing from tree to tree, wildly gesticulating to their fellow-discoverers to "S-s-e-sh! Can't you hear him? Isn't he sweet?" Or, "Look, Mary! It's a mocking bird! See the white on its wing? It's flying to another tree! What did you say? Why, of course it isn't a jay! Didn't Miss Rogers just say a mocking bird had white on its wings?" Or, "Oh, what an adorable English sparrow! I'll bet we've listed twenty this very afternoon!"

Look ye well to your laurels, poets! Who contends that there be loftier ideals than these held by wee lassies on an April morn gazing rapturously into space, hanging breathlessly on the first faint peep of a shaky bird trouble? Who can attempt to describe the look of intense excitement, wild elation, joyous abandon to the glorious art of discovery depicted on their flushed and happy faces? Their glowing accounts of the marvelous merits of various members of the bird kingdom would make even a poet blush for shame. Spring is supposed to be the time when the fancies of young men lightly turn to thoughts of pre-eminence, but woe be unto them if the objects of their affection be the students of ornithology at the Georgia State College for Women! Their interests, their joys, their lives are all wrapped up in the one inspiring study of birds. Oh, the hirdies that sing in the spring, tra la!

ALUMNAE NEWS

Alice Vernon Smith of the class of '24, who has been teaching in Sarasota, Fla., has lately reduced her roll of Apt pupils to one, and has taken that one for life instruction. She is now Mrs. Hugh S. Clark, of Sarasota.

Lucille Ross, '25, of Atlanta, is teaching third grade in a school of her native city.

Olivia Smenner, of the class of '11, who was formerly connected with the Home Economics Department of our college, is now on the faculty of Miami University, Oxford, Ohio.

Cornelia Montgomery, '25 of Commerce, is teaching at Sandersville, Ga.

Emma Mae Balwin, a degree student of 1925 is on the High School faculty at Bethel, N. C.

H. S. CLASS GOES ON HIKE

The H. S. 12 Class enjoyed a most delightful hike out to Nesbit Woods, chaperoned by Mrs. Tuttle, teacher of the class. An appetizing mid-morning lunch was cooked over an open fire; the menu consisted of toasted bread and butter sandwiches, bacon sandwiches, pickles, hot coffee and toasted marshmallows.

Those enjoying the hike were: Thelma Holbrook, Frances Harris, Bennie Lou aCamp, Lillie Tarver, Agnes Temples, Alice Williams, Marion Mullikin, Elizabeth Cooper, Lucille Dunaway, Louise Forkner, Mae Burkhardt, Susie Lane Brown, Ruth Boynton, Frances Ennis, Jerry Harris, Mozelle Jones, and Mrs. Tuttle, who had as her guest also Gertrude Puckett.

OUR SCHOOL

We can knock it, we can rap it,
We can kick it, we can scrap it,
But let's advertise our school another way;
Let us laud it and applaud it,
Let's commend it and defend it,
Till the state shall know we mean just what we say.

We can rake it, we can break it,
We can make it or forsake it
Just by the way we talk about our own.

We can boost it, we can shove it,
We must talk it, we must love it,
If we want it to go up instead of down.

Why not sing and shout its praises,
Mention all its happy phases,
Show the state the best school on the map?

Boost it both at class and table,
Boost it where and when you're able,
All together now—let's boost and "can the rap!"

THE IDEAL GIRL

The ideal average girl is strong in body, is intelligent, believes in God and strives to obey His laws. She is not afraid to work and she has courage to meet hardships and loneliness if they come. She is interested in pretty clothes, she wants them for herself, she has what she can honestly afford and she spends time and takes pains to get the very best she can for the money she has. She likes fun, she enjoys amusements and good times. She will not indulge in things of which her parents heartily disapprove or which unfit her for her work or study, and which her own conscience tells her are doubtful. She loves her friends and companions and has as many as she can. She chooses carefully her friends among the boys and men and lets neither word or act lower in the least their respect for her. She looks forward to the day when she can have a home of her own and fits herself to care for it with intelligence and skill. She is honest and faithful to the present tasks. She is kindly, generous, helpful, cheerful, just the sort of girl one would like to live with every day.

SOCIAL HOUR ENJOYED BY SCIENCE CLUB

A social hour was enjoyed by the Science Club Tuesday afternoon at 5:30 in Ennis basement. Many games were played, after which sandwiches, cakes and punch were served by Callie Patton and Avonell Salmon.

The faculty members present were: Miss Rogers, Miss Dietrich, Miss Nixon, "Dr. Beeson" and Mr. Scott.

The student members present were Mildred Grayhill, Martha Story, Juanita Carr, Sara Nelson, Mollie Carr, Lena Parker, Louise McWilliams, Miss Fehling, Frances Thaxton, Lorraine Teaver, Violet Harris, Sarah De Jarnette.

HISTORY CLUB HAS POLITICAL PROGRAM

Wished to see the inheritance tax bill passed and some opposed it. It was finally passed, however. Senator Smoot remarked, at the beginning of the session, that if they did not decide something they would have to hold night meetings. This probably "speeded up" the voting. After the meeting the Senators and Representatives enjoyed several entertaining games.

Teacher: "Can you tell the class what a battering ram is?"
Student: "No, Mam, I just know it is some kind of a goat."

FRESHMEN COUNCIL TREATED TO HIKE TO NESBIT WOODS

One beautiful day, just recently, a group of merry, joyous girls met in front of Ennis Hall about eleven o'clock. Yes, you may have guessed it, the group was formed of girls of the Cabinet and Commission and Council. The Cabinet and Sophomore Commission were treating the Freshman Council with a picnic lunch in Nesbit woods.

Preparations had been made during the morning and a splendid lunch was served under the trees, picnic fashion. While some of the girls filled the plates with sandwiches, potato chips, fruit salad and other "goodies", some were making the coffee over the camp fire. Still others were helping to bring wood and rambling over the surrounding woods enjoying the "off-campus" atmosphere.

While they were gathered waiting for lunch, Sadie Corum entertained with a few selections from "Uncle Josh".

The lunch, the recreation, the companionship, was thoroughly enjoyed by all.

After lunch, everybody returned to the Recreation Hall and there they had a joint meeting of the three groups. The main topic discussed was Industry. Rosabel Burch told of an industrial project which is put on every year and through which college women may get a clearer and more sympathetic view of the lives of the girls in the industrial world.

The project this year is to be held in Chicago as this city offer a wider range of industries and promises an interesting though hard work for many during the summer weeks.

Grace Taylor then gave an outline of the program on industry to be conducted on our campus. This includes vespers, morning watch, and the use of outside speakers. As a follow-up to this, Anna Elizabeth Branch led the devotional on our relationship to the girl in Industry.

As a conclusion Miss Goodson led a discussion on the National aim of the Y. W. C. A. Tentative plans were made for an aim for the Y. on our campus for 1926-27.

CAMP-FIRE SUPPER ENJOYED BY MISS NAPIER'S BIBLE CLASS

Promptly at 5:30 on the afternoon of March 8, fifteen happy girls, members of Miss Napier's Bible Study class, left the campus for a hike to Nesbit's Wood, chaperoned by Miss Napier.

Immediately after reaching the woods, two large fires were built, and, before many minutes had passed, the supper was cooked. After all had enjoyed those things which are so characteristic of a hike—coffee, bacon, eggs, and toast—Miss Napier announced that she had a surprise for the class. An extremely nice surprise it was, for she had brought with her a large box of very delicious candy.

The hikers returned home even happier than they were on setting out, for certainly all had had a most delightful time.

SUPPER BEAUTIFUL AFFAIR AT HOUSEHOLD SCIENCE 22 CLASS

The Household Science 22 class, a course in planning and serving meals, gave a beautifully appointed supper on Saturday evening, March 20. The affair was in compliment to four visitors to the H. S. department, Miss Cone who is Supervisor of the Home Economics in the Atlanta Public School System; Miss Mase, Principal of the Girls' High School in Atlanta; Miss Corrigan, and Miss Allen.

The dining room of the department was festive in Springtime's gay colors, yellow and green. Jonquils and shaded candles added to the beauty of the decorations.

The guests were received by Misses Callie Patton, president of the Home Economics Club, and Alice Donovan. Misses Donovan and Mollie Carr presided graciously over the service at the table. After supper the guests were taken on an inspection tour through the kitchen laboratories. There they disregarded social barriers and engaged in congenial conversation with the erstwhile cooks and waitresses.

Among the guests were Dr. and Mrs. M. M. Parks, Dr. and Mrs. J. L. Beeson, Misses Cone, Allen, Muse, Corrigan, Morris, Simpson, Tabb, Brooks, Burch, Daniels, Beeson, Burditt, Catherine Parks, Mrs. Tuttle, Mrs. Callahan, and Mr. and Mrs. Scott.

TEA GIVEN ORCHESTRA HONORING MISS WILDER

On Saturday afternoon from five to six o'clock, Julia Reeves entertained the members of the Orchestra at tea, in honor of Miss Wilder.

The room presented a cozy atmosphere with the soft yellow light and an artistic arrangement of flowers. The color scheme used was blue and gold.

Those assisting in entertaining were Misses Mildred May, Eula Gladin, Helen Williams, and Julia McCall.

Among those enjoying the hospitality at Miss Reeves, were Misses Wilder, Mildred Wright, Valentine Barron, Violet Harris, Merle Eubanks, Mildred Foster, Mary Jo Wood, Frances Linder, Cornelia Ledbetter, and Elizabeth Wilkins.

CHILD PSYCHOLOGY STUDENTS HONORED BY MISS BOLTON

Monday afternoon, students of Child Psychology were delightfully entertained by the instructor, Miss Eurl Bell Bolton, at her apartment in the Darien hotel. The room in which the guests were entertained was made lovely by spring flowers. Delicious refreshments were served after an hour of story telling.

SONG RECITAL GIVEN BY MARY HYMAN

Mary Hyman, talented pupil of Miss Tucker, gave a most successful and enjoyable song recital, Monday evening, March 22.

Mary's rich contralto, which is always a delight to her hearers, has never held her audience with more charm than on that evening.

Miss Tucker and Mrs. Allen, accompanists, and Miss Wilder, who gave several beautiful violin solos, assisted in the program which follows:

I.

Misses Cliff and Grace Taylor were visited by their parents of Waynesboro.

Miss Alice McAlmurray, of Swainsboro, visited Miss Rosalind Mason and Miss Virginia Williams.

Mrs. J. H. West of Sandersville, was the guest of her daughter, Miss Mattie Belle West.

FACULTY CLUB MEETS AT THAXTON HOME

The members of The Tuesday night Club know and like advertising! When entertained last week by Mr. and Mrs. O. A. Thaxton this was shown by the manner in which they fell in with a program wholly on advertising.

The first thing on the program was charades, each person acting out an advertisement for the others to guess. Following this contests of different types were held and prizes were given. Perhaps the most interesting was one in which original advertisements were composed. Dr. Daniels won an Easter rabbit by advertising a typewriter, fitted with capital and small letters, which would write and color and any language.

After the contests delicious refreshments were served.

OFFICERS AND CABINET OF Y. W. C. A. ELECTED FOR YEARS 1926-27

la Rica; Frances Harris, Eton; Isabelle Crowder, Asheville, N. C.; Agnes Poole, Landonia; Mary Hyman, Sandersville; Bess Neely, Hagaz; Caroline Cheney, Carrollton; Mary Jane Parker, Fairburn; Beulah Floyd, Columbus; Virginia Arnold, Monroe; Katherine Bagley, Newman; Annie Laurie Gobes, Waynesboro; Florence Nasworthy, Dawson; Margaret Hightower, Nelson; Minnie Stowe, Jesup; Rebecca Higginson, Macon; Esther Cathy, Atlanta; Faye Sessions, Summer; Alice Kelly, Mitchell.

The early election of the officers does not mean that they are to take their respective offices before next September. This plan makes it possible for the incoming officers to work with the present ones so they may receive instruction and inspiration for their future task.

The present officers are to be commended for their untiring efforts to make the Y. W. C. A. live on G. S. C. campus. It is the biggest and the strongest student association here, and to make it vital to every member is a task to call forth the best in every girl.

As head of the organization this year Cliff Taylor has served as few people are able to serve. Her untiring efforts have been an inspiration to those with whom she has worked. Equally as much can be said of the other officers. The retiring officers are: Cliff Taylor, President; Jayne Weeks, Vice-President; Elizabeth Green, Secretary; Virginia McMichael, Treasurer; Rosabel Burch, under-graduate representative; Mary Moss, Religious Department; Margaret Meaders, Social Department; Grace Taylor, World Fellowship Department; Ruth Moran, Service Department; Frances Hinton, Publicity Department.

keep the flames from spreading to the back of Brown's store. In a short while both the furniture and hardware stores were destroyed. While the hardware store was burning, many cartridges and shells exploded, adding to the confusion.

When the interior of the Elk's Hall was completely wrecked, the walls started falling. One entire side fell on Culver Kidd's crushing the roof in. Three persons were caught in the store. One escaped from the second story by sliding down the awning, the other two were trapped in the debris and escaped only with the greatest difficulty.

Sparks flew from the burning buildings and endangered the surrounding buildings. Some lodged on the roof of the Spot-Cash Store but were extinguished before much damage was done. Others caught in a bird's nest in the belfry of the Baptist Church but did no harm. Most of the business firms made homeless by the fire have found new quarters and are making plans for rebuilding.

SECRETARY OF NATIONAL COUNCIL FOR PEACE SPEAKS HERE

can do, but as teachers in the future especially as history teachers, we shall have a glorious opportunity to further this plan. Since the world of tomorrow is dependent upon the youth of today, we shall have the privilege of training its leaders—instilling in their minds the ideals of peace.

In conclusion Dr. Watkins made a stirring appeal to the patriotism of the student body, by presenting to them the well known poster America First. The nine ways in which our nation should stand first were impressively read. Again he challenged the student to give of their best to maintain a spirit of peace and good will among all people.

EXCHANGE

The Furman University Glee Club left March 5 for New York, where it will compete in the Intercollegiate Glee Club Contest held at Carnegie Hall. There are thirteen college glee clubs competing.
—Black and Gold.

In a recent issue of the Technician of the North Carolina State College, a co-ed issued a challenge to any male student to debate with her, the question: "Resolved, That the recent tendencies toward the extension of Woman's rights and privileges are detrimental to civilization." That is rather unusual, but the miraculous part of the whole thing is that there was one male student on the campus who accepted the challenge and who will meet the members of the other sex and fight the thing to a finish in the literary society hall.

The critic stood with scornful eye
Before a picture on the wall;
"You call that art? Now see that fly,
Is not natural at all."

"It has too many legs, its head
Is far too large—who ever saw
A fly that, so limp and dead
And wings that look as if they—phaw!"

And with a gesture of disgust
He waved his hand, when lo! the fly
Flew from the picture, "Ah, some dust,"

The critic said, "was in my eye."

A CORRECTION

Sometime ago The Colonade included in its PERSONALS the statement that Mr. George Methvin had visited his sisters Misses Florence and Augusta Methvin.

This opportunity is taken to correct this mistake. Since the girls are of no relation the statement should have read thus: Mr. George Methvin visited his sister, Miss Florence Methvin.

Light: "Heard your read out for unprepared for recitation this morning. How come?"

Lighter: "Brought a soft pencil to a hard exam."
